Course/Module description:
The course will focus on the contribution of two sources of knowledge to the perception of recovery: Research based knowledge and the knowledge of consumers. The frameworks of thinking of recovery and social inclusion will serve as a base for the course. There will be a review during the course of different areas of rehabilitation such as supported education, employment, health promotion. There will also be a critical discussion about the contribution of the two sources of knowledge to the advancement of the recovery process.

Course/Module aims:
1. To provide theoretical and research based knowledge on the areas of recovery and social inclusion,
2. To develop knowledge for evaluation and advancement of recovery oriented services.
3. To examine ways in which it would be possible to implement the framework of thinking of recovery and social inclusion in rehabilitation services.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:
1. Knowledge of the multiple dimensions and complexity of the definition of the concepts recovery and social inclusion.
2. Development of critical thinking of the extent in which services and interventions in the area of rehabilitation are recovery oriented.
3. Development of knowledge how to develop recovery-oriented services and interventions.
