Course/Module description:

The course "Political Thought in Germany in its European Context (1945-present)" will focus on two schools: Ordoliberalism and the "Frankfurt School". Both have provided visions of a good social order, which have been influential in Germany and beyond (e.g. on the European level). We will read a number of authors (Eucken, Rypke, Horkheimer/Adorno, Habermas, Honneth) and compare them, analyzing the (obvious) differences and the (not so obvious) similarities, and discuss their relation to everyday political discourse and political structures.

Course/Module aims:

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- understand important lines of political thought in Germany and their philosophical underpinnings
- read, analyse, and critically evaluate texts from German political philosophy
- critically discuss the relation between philosophical thought and political debates
