Course/Module description:
Between 1989 and 1991 Communist regimes collapsed across Eastern and Central Europe. Three multinational states - USSR, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia - disintegrated. All post-Communist states has since then attempted to create stable democratic regimes, and successful market economies. Some, like Poland and the Czech Republic, succeeded. Others, like Russia and Ukraine, were far less successful. The course proves causes of these successes and failures.

Course/Module aims:
The purpose of this course is to examine where democracy is going in this region and what are its chances of survival. In Part One main theoretical explanations of democratic survival will be analyzed, while in Part Two the analysis would focus on the developments in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:
At the end of the course the student will be able to evaluate and compare political and economic developments in post-Communist Europe.
