Coordinator Office Hours:

Teaching Staff:

Prof Amit Pinchevski

Course/Module description:

The course is offered specifically for advanced research students: M.A. and PhD. It will proceed as a reading group in which we will read one major text (and related texts), which concern key questions about the essence, nature and operation of media.

Course/Module aims:

The course provides an alternative learning space, largely absent from existing graduate studies curriculum. Rather than frontal teaching or conducting individual research, the goal here is partaking in a research forum dedicated to reading and discussion of a text that demands combined intellectual effort.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- *close reading of a highly challenging work
- *development of critical thinking skills
- *develop philosophical understanding of key questions of media
- * active participation in a reading group
- *leading group discussion
