Course/Module description:

During the second year of the graduate program the students will participate 2 days a week, 12 h/w, in field practice in rehabilitation and clinical neuropsychology institutes. See list of institutions in the Hebrew version.

Course/Module aims:

To provide the students a preliminary acquaintance with rehabilitation and neuropsychological intervention systems. To let them observe and then actively experience these interventions, on a preliminary basis, under supervision.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

Upon completion of the mini-practicum the students will acquire a preliminary impression of how a rehabilitation/neuropsychological system operates; what are the interventions that neuropsychologists are involved in, and how do they integrate into the rehabilitation team-work. The students will acquire basic practical skills in assessment and treatment; will get to know and understand at least one type of patients' population, and begin to develop their personal identity as psychologists.
