Course/Module description:

The course is an 8 day study trip to Berlin, which will explore in situ how contemporary Berlin imagines itself. It will follow the course taught at Mt. Scopus (54617), and will delve more thoroughly into the historical heritage of the city, namely of the 18th-20th centuries. We shall walk through the city's different districts, physically explore its layout and internal logic, study some of its larger and smaller monuments as study cases for the image of New Berlin, visit some of the best museums and art collections in the world, and meet some influential people from the cultural scene and city officials.

Course/Module aims:

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- understand the historical context of Berlin's contemporary visual and conceptual image;
- analyze the political aspects of the architecture of Berlin as methods of image-making and memory shaping;
- identify major trends in Berlin's contemporary urban design;
- engage with visual culture as source of knowledge for their study.
