Course/Module description:

The seminar is an introduction to the political economy of Germany after WWII. "Modell Deutschland" will thus be analyzed as concerns its defining elements - theoretically, historically and currently. In a first part, we will discuss the rise and main characteristics of the Wirtschaftswunder state historically and theoretically, and taking into consideration its current transformation(s). Issues/questions that we will discuss in this first part include, among others, German semi-sovereignty, (neo-)corporatism, the current refugee crisis, and how and whether unification and the Hartz IV reforms have changed the German model once and for all. In a second part we analyze "Modell Deutschland" in the context of European integration processes, and in comparative perspective - for example, in juxtaposition to US capitalism or the Scandinavian welfare state.

Course/Module aims:

Good knowledge of German socio-economic and political model; good understanding of the theoretical approaches in the context of which the German socio-economic model matters and is explained; analytical skills: relating empirical observations and historical data and narratives to theoretical arguments and discussions; independent research with a variety of sources

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

Critically discuss German politics and contemporary public and academic debates in Germany to the theoretical debates about welfare state development, (neo-)corporatism and varieties of capitalism; conduct independent research on specific topics related to Germany; understand Germany in the context of the European Union.

Attendance requirements(%):

80%

Teaching arrangement and method of instruction: Intensive text discussions(interactive), which are complemented by lectures on specific topics. Both are supplemented by research assignments, presentations by the students, movies and news reviews.
