Course/Module description:

Germany and France are often described as the 'twin engine' or "core countries" of Europe. Both countries work indeed closely together on many levels. Their alliance is based on agreements and political vision. The course teaches the development of the special relations between France and Germany – from 'hereditary enmity' to reconciliation and the current partnership. It focuses on the principles, structure, practice and challenges of today's multi-layered bilateral cooperation that has been key to furthering the ideals of European integration since its beginning.

Course/Module aims:

The course aims to transmit historical perspectives as well as contemporary challenges of the Franco-German alliance including political, cultural as well as linguistic approaches. It provides insights into both societies with an emphasis on mutual perceptions.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

- To have good knowledge about the multi-layered processes of reconciliation leading to the current alliance between Germany and France.
- To assess similarities and differences between the two countries with respect to past and ongoing key issues.
- To be able to identify the uniqueness of the German-French alliance as well as its universal aspects potentially relevant for other rapprochements.
- To demonstrate how transnational practices and cooperation affect both societies
- To have a reflective view on the current state of the bilateral relations between France and Germany through the critical discussion of academic texts as well as news content.

Attendance requirements(%):

90%
