Course/Module description:

The course is an introduction to Germany's foreign policy since 1945 from historical, empirical, conceptual, and analytical point of view. Torn between West and East, the beginning of the course will focus on the Federal Republic of Germany during the cold war and its alignment with the West - NATO and especially the European Union. Most of the course will focus on the period after unification and the end of the cold war and will examine both "hard" and "soft" foreign policies and tools.

An emphasis will be put on the European Union's Common Foreign and Security Policy as the main vehicle of multilateral German foreign policy.

Many questions arise on the topic: What (who and why) are the drivers of German's foreign policy in the past decades? Does Germany have "normal" foreign policy? Has it been normalized since WWII? Is it still a "sleeping giant"? Only a civil power? What are the domestic trends of continuity and change in Germany's position and behavior in European and world politics? What are the institutional frameworks which both limit and enable Germany to formulate and act in its foreign policy? These are some of the questions we'll ask and debate during the course.

Course/Module aims:

1. Widening and deepening empirical knowledge and understanding of German FP and the other FP circles surrounding it: EU, NATO, etc.
2. Analyzing the empirics by paradigms, around conceptual frameworks, theories and methodologies
3. Enhance group discussion and individual analysis and research in the field

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

Demonstrate good knowledge of main issues in German foreign policy after 1945;
Understand and use relevant terminology, conceptual and theoretical approaches to analyze German foreign policy;
Conduct analysis and research in the field
