

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Syllabus

victimology - 61732

Last update 20-07-2017

HU Credits: 2

Degree/Cycle: 2nd degree (Master)

Responsible Department: criminology

Academic year: 0

Semester:

Teaching Languages: Hebrew

Campus: Mt. Scopus

Course/Module Coordinator: Inbal Wilamovski

Coordinator Email: inbiloo@gmail.com

Coordinator Office Hours: Monday 13:00-14:00

Teaching Staff:

Dr. Inbal Wilamovski

Course/Module description:

Victimology is a developed field in recent years and is central to the academic and social discourse as an area of significant research that focuses on the victims of crime. In this course we will learn basic concepts in the field of victimology and examine them from a critical perspective. First, we look at the concept of victimhood from an historical perspective and from various theoretical approaches. We will discuss the victim's place in society in general and in the law enforcement system in particular. We will examine data relating to the victims of various social groups and focus on disadvantaged populations victims (on the axes of ethnicity, class, sexual orientation, age and gender) while testing their relationship with the system and asking questions about their (non) accessibility to justice. Second, we will examine researches on the emotional, social, economic and legal effects of victimhood in the personal and the social level. In addition, we will extend the concept of the victimhood and suggest broader social questions on 'civilians at risk, the fear of crime and the meaning of the discourses on victimhood of different areas. We will look at the history and development of the 'victim rights movement' and at social policy aimed at the welfare of victims of crime, and we will try to think together and suggest ways to improve the field.

Course/Module aims:

the purpose of the course is to Understand crime from the victim's point of view and analyze phenomena in Criminology from victimology critical perspective. Identify and understand places of non-access to justice for victims and victims bare populated and offer creative solutions for change.

Learning outcomes - On successful completion of this module, students should be able to:

We will examine and discuss various topics in criminology, and analyze them from the perspective of Victimology, focusing on the victim's point of view combined with a perspective for critical analysis.

Attendance requirements(%):

Full attendance

Teaching arrangement and method of instruction: Lectures, discussions, exercises in class and writing assignments

Course/Module Content:

-
1. Theories of victimology
 2. Measurement and evaluation of victimhood
 3. The psychological aspects of the victimhood
 4. Economic Aspects of victimhood
 5. Legal Aspects of victimhood- the rights of victims of crime in the criminal procedure
 6. The situation in Israel-Rights of Victims of Crime law (2001)
 7. Children as victims
 8. Women as victims
 9. elders and disabled as victims
 10. minorities as victims
 11. Hate Crime Victims
 12. Fear of Crime and Victimhood

Required Reading:

Please see course website (moodle)

Additional Reading Material:

Please see course website (moodle)

Course/Module evaluation:

End of year written/oral examination 100 %

Presentation 0 %

Participation in Tutorials 0 %

Project work 0 %

Assignments 0 %

Reports 0 %

Research project 0 %

Quizzes 0 %

Other 0 %

Additional information: